INTRODUCTION

Two Jewish plaintiffs filed this case against defendant University of Southern California (“USC” or the “University”) following recent campus protests over the Israel-Hamas war. Plaintiffs allege violations of the Bane, Unruh, and Ralph Acts, as well as tort and breach of contract claims. USC has shown that the Court has subject-matter jurisdiction under the Class Action Fairness Act (“CAFA”). See Dkts. 18, 26. It has also shown that plaintiffs’ operative complaint (the “First Amended Complaint” or “FAC”) should be dismissed on the merits for failure to state a claim. See Dkt. 10.

But now, plaintiffs seek to file a third complaint. Dkt. 49. Plaintiffs do not add any new factual allegations or bolster their operative complaint after reviewing USC’s motion to dismiss. Instead, plaintiffs offer a proposed new complaint with just one substantive change: limiting the putative class to only California citizens for the sole and express purpose of “negating” minimal diversity and “divesting” this Court of CAFA subject matter jurisdiction. Id. at 2. That effort fails, and the motion should be denied for three independent reasons.

First, as a threshold matter, plaintiffs failed to comply with Local Rule 7-3. That rule required them to “thoroughly discuss” the instant motion with USC and explore the potential for agreement. Here, plaintiffs’ final communication before filing the instant motion was a promise to “propos[e] the times and dates” for the required meet-and-confer discussion. See Declaration of Rasha Gerges Shields (“Shields Decl.”) ¶ 3, Ex. B, at 10 (Sept. 19 Email from B. Castaneda). Plaintiffs never proposed anything; they simply filed their motion. That does not suffice; the motion should be denied.

Second, plaintiffs’ proposed complaint is futile because it does not accomplish their stated purpose of negating CAFA jurisdiction by eliminating minimal diversity. As USC has explained—over and over again—“citizenship of the class for purposes of minimal diversity [under CAFA] must be determined as of the operative complaint at the date of removal.” Broadway Grill, Inc. v. Visa Inc., 856 F.3d 1274, 1279 (9th

1 Cir. 2017). The Ninth Circuit has expressly rejected the exact maneuver plaintiffs try 2 here. Id. Plaintiffs cannot amend their class definition after removal to divest the 3 Court of subject matter jurisdiction.

4 Third, plaintiffs’ amendment is also futile because it does nothing to save
5 plaintiffs’ claims on the merits. Plaintiffs do not purport to overcome the numerous 6 shortcomings USC has identified (see Dkt. 10), and their proposed new allegations
7 are directed exclusively at their misguided jurisdictional goal (Dkt. 49, at 7).

8 Plaintiffs’ current effort once again highlights that this case is properly in 9 federal court and should be dismissed on the merits with prejudice. Plaintiffs’
10 putative class at the time of removal includes plaintiffs who are citizens of other states,
11 as USC demonstrated when removing this case and when opposing remand. See Dkts.
12 1, 18, 26. And plaintiffs do not try to shore up their deficient allegations in their 13 proposed complaint—even though they have had USC’s dismissal arguments in hand
14 for months. See Dkts. 10, 32. Plaintiffs add nothing because there is nothing to add.
15 And what they have fails to state a claim. The Court should, therefore, deny plaintiffs’
16 motion for leave to amend and grant USC’s pending motion to dismiss with prejudice.

17 I. PROCEDURAL AND FACTUAL BACKGROUND

18 A. Overview of Relevant Filings

19 Plaintiffs filed their original complaint on May 15, 2024, and their operative
20 complaint—the FAC—on June 5, 2024, in state court. Dkt. 1, Ex. A. The operative
21 complaint asserts claims on behalf of a putative class of all Jewish students and faculty
22 at USC for violations of the Bane, Unruh, and Ralph Acts. Dkt. 1, Ex. A-7, FAC
23 ¶¶ 63–82. Plaintiffs also allege that USC aided and abetted intentional torts for assault
24 and battery. Id. ¶¶ 95–107. The FAC also includes claims for negligence (Count IV),
25 breach of contract (Count V), a “declaration” (Count VIII), and an “injunction”
26 (Count IX). Id. ¶¶ 83–94, 108–113.

27 USC removed the case to federal court pursuant to CAFA on July 8, 2024. Dkt.
28 1. Plaintiffs later moved to remand the case to state court. Dkt. 25; see also Dkt. 9

1 (Court’s order to show cause regarding subject matter jurisdiction). USC has shown
2 that CAFA’s requirements were met at the time of removal—including minimal
3 diversity and amount in controversy—and that plaintiffs have not established that a
4 CAFA exception applies. Dkt. 1, 18, and 26. The Court took plaintiffs’ remand 5 motion under submission and ordered the parties to “continue litigating this action
6 diligently, while awaiting the court’s ruling.” Dkt. 28.

7 USC filed its Motion to Dismiss on July 15, 2024. Dkt. 10. Plaintiffs missed
8 the deadline for responding to USC’s motion, but the Court permitted plaintiffs to file
9 a late response. Dkt. 37. In that response, plaintiffs failed to address numerous 10 dispositive arguments that require dismissal of each of their claims. Dkt. 39.
11 Plaintiffs also expressed a desire to amend their complaint, but did not then explain
12 how any potential amendment would cure the defects in their pleadings. Id. USC’s
13 motion to dismiss is scheduled to be heard on the same day as the instant motion
14 (October 25).

15 B. Plaintiffs Promised to Propose Dates and Times to Meet and Confer,
16 but Filed the Present Motion Instead.

17 On September 18, plaintiffs’ counsel wrote to USC’s counsel to “advise[] that 18 [plaintiffs] intend to amend the class definition to limit Plaintiffs to only Jewish USC 19 Students and Faculty Members who are citizens of the State of California” in an 20 attempt to “negate federal jurisdiction under CAFA.” See Shields Decl. ¶ 2, Ex. A, at 21 5 (Sept. 18 Email from M. Reznick). The next day, USC’s counsel responded, noted 22 that this Court’s precedent is clear that an email is insufficient to meet and confer, and 23 invited plaintiffs to propose times for a live meet and confer on the phone. See id., at 24 2 (Sept. 19 Email from R. Shields); see also Follmer v. Mutaguchi, No. 19CV01824-25 FLA, 2021 WL 4816866, at *4 (C.D. Cal. 2021) (“The purpose of Local Rule 7-3 is 26 not served by emailing a draft motion, without further discussion, and placing the 27 onus to meet and confer on the opposing party.”). USC’s counsel also sought clarity
28 on who represents plaintiffs in these proceedings in the Central District of California,

1 given that one of plaintiffs’ attorneys is suspended from practicing before this Court.¹
2 See Shields Decl. ¶ 2, Ex. A, at 4 (Sept. 19 Email from R. Shields).

3 Plaintiffs’ suspended counsel, Mr. Reznick, declined to schedule a meet and 4 confer. See id., at 3 (Sept. 19 Email from M. Reznick). But plaintiffs’ counsel of 5 record, Mr. Castaneda, emailed separately four minutes later, promising to “propose[]
6 the times and dates” to meet and confer “in the next email.” See Shields Decl. ¶ 3, 7 Ex. B, at 10 (Sept. 19 Email from B. Castaneda). USC’s counsel responded, 8 indicating that USC “will await your email for proposed dates/times for our meet and 9 confer.” See id. (Sept. 19 Email from R. Shields).

10 Plaintiffs never proposed dates and times for a meet and confer, and instead 11 filed the present motion. Even more disappointing is plaintiffs’ representation that 12 “Plaintiffs also met and conferred with Defendant’s counsel pursuant to Local Rule 13 7-3 before filing the instant motion and sought a stipulation for the same relief and 14 remand, to no avail.” Dkt. 49, at 4. That representation is not correct. Plaintiffs never 15 even proposed a time for the promised meet and confer.

16 Plaintiffs’ motion and associated documents were stricken and refiled multiple 17 times. See Dkt. 40, 41, 44, 45, 47. Each time, plaintiffs represented that they had 18 complied with the meet and confer requirement, even after USC’s counsel informed
19 plaintiffs that the representation was incorrect. See Shields Decl. ¶ 3, Ex. B, at 9
20 (Sept. 24 Email from R. Shields to B. Castaneda).

21 C. The Operative Complaint Is Not Limited to California Citizens.

22 Plaintiffs’ motion to amend suggests that they are trying to “make[] clear” that 23

24 ¹ Despite his suspension, Mr. Reznick has submitted a declaration to this Court 25 representing that he is “counsel of record for Plaintiffs” and “solely responsible” for 26 at least one of plaintiffs’ filings in this Court and plaintiffs’ missed deadline. Dkt. 35, 27 at 4; see also Dkt. 36 (citing In re Michael Reznick, No. 2:23-ad-1 PSG (C.D. Cal.
28 May 8, 2023) at Dkt. 7 (Order of Suspension following reciprocal disciplinary review by the Central District of California); In re Disciplinary Proceeding of Michael E.
Reznick, No. 2:22-mp-104-BB (Bankr. C.D. Cal. Dec. 29, 2022) at Dkt. 27).

1 their putative class consists of only California citizens. Dkt. 49 at 1. That is not
2 correct: that limitation is found nowhere in the operative complaint. Rather, the 3 operative complaint states that plaintiffs seek to represent a class of “Jewish Students
4 and Jewish Professors and Faculty” at USC. FAC ¶¶ 2 (“Plaintiffs, Jewish Students
5 and Jewish Professors and Faculty”), 3 (same), 12 (same with typo), 13 (same), 63
6 (“Jewish Professors and Faculty members and Jewish Students”); see id. ¶ 4 (“Jewish 7 Students and Faculty”), 6 (same), 14 (same), 15 (same), 17 (same), 18 (same), 63(c)
8 (same), 64 (same), 72 (same), 80 (same), 84 (same), 86 (same), 91 (same), 97 (same)
9 109 (same); see also id. ¶ 8 (referencing “Defendant University’s large Jewish student
10 body and faculty”), 71 (“University Students and Faculty” that are “Jewish or 11 Israeli”); see also Dkt. 26 at 6–7.

12 As USC has already shown, that putative class includes citizens of Guatemala
13 and New York, satisfying minimal diversity. See Dkt. 1 ¶¶ 23–24; Dkt 1-10 (Chang 14 Decl.) ¶ 4; Dkt. 26 at 6–7.

15 D. Plaintiffs’ Proposed Complaint Purports to Only Amend Class
16 Allegations.

17 Plaintiffs’ proposed complaint, the Second Amended Complaint (“SAC”), 18 purports to limit the putative class to only Jewish USC professors and students “who 19 are California citizens who suffered damages and harm as a result of Defendant
20 University’s conduct.” SAC ¶¶ 60–61. The following redline between Paragraph 60
21 of the FAC and proposed complaint shows the newly limited faculty class:

22
23 60. Plaintiff DOE JEWISH USC FACULTY MEMBER 2004, Individually And 24 On Behalf Of All Others Similarly Situated ("Plaintiff" or "Plaintiffs" or "Jewish 25 Professor"), sues in Jewish Professor's individual capacity as a Jewish USC Professor and 26 citizen of the State of California who suffered damages and harm as a result of Defendant
27 University's conduct and as a representative ~~on behalf~~ of all other similarly situated 28 Jewish Professors who are California citizens who suffered damages and harm as a result of Defendant University's conduct.

1 And the following redline between Paragraph 61 of the FAC and proposed complaint
2 shows the newly limited student class:

4 61. Plaintiffs DOE JEWISH USC STUDENT 1987 ("Jewish Student or 5 Students"), Individually And On Behalf Of All Others Similarly Situated, is a Jewish
6 USC Student ~~who sues in Jewish~~ and citizen of the State of California who suffered 7 damages and harm as a result of Defendant University's conduct. Plaintiff is suing in 8 Jewish Student's individual capacity as a Jewish USC ~~Professor who suffered damages~~
9 ~~and harm as a result of Defendant University's conduct~~ Student and as a representative on 10 behalf of all ~~other~~ similarly situated Jewish ~~Professors~~ Students who are citizens of the 11 State of California.

12
13 A full redline is attached as Exhibit C to the Declaration of Rasha Gerges Shields filed 14 concurrently herewith. Consistent with plaintiffs' representation, the amendments are 15 directed at limiting the class allegations to California citizens. Dkt. 49, at 3. Plaintiffs 16 do not make any substantive changes to their "merits" allegations. See Shields Decl.
17 ¶ 4, Ex. C.

18 II. THE COURT SHOULD DENY PLAINTIFFS' REQUEST FOR LEAVE
19 TO AMEND THEIR COMPLAINT.

20 Plaintiffs' motion fails for three independent reasons.

- 21 • First, plaintiffs failed to comply with Local Rule 7-3 before filing their 22 motion for leave to amend;
- 23 • Second, the proposed complaint is futile because it cannot accomplish
24 the sole purpose for which it is offered: divesting the Court of CAFA 25 jurisdiction.
- 26 • Third, the proposed complaint does not purport to cure any of the defects 27 and omissions that defeat plaintiffs' existing complaint on the merits.

28 Plaintiffs' motion for leave to file the proposed complaint should be denied on each

1 of these grounds.

2 A. Plaintiffs Failed to Comply With Local Rule 7-3.

3 “Compliance with the Local Rules is not optional.” Calco v. Ossur Americas,
4 Inc., No. SACV2201971, 2024 WL 694369, at *1 (C.D. Cal. 2024). Local Rule 7-3 5 unambiguously requires that “counsel contemplating the filing of any motion must 6 first contact opposing counsel to discuss thoroughly . . . the substance of the 7 contemplated motion and any potential resolution.” The conference “must take place
8 at least 7 days prior to the filing of the motion.” Id. The rule serves both to conserve 9 judicial resources and promote cooperation among opposing counsel by requiring 10 them to explore the potential for reaching an agreement. See Calco, 2024 WL 694369,
11 at *1. Courts in the Central District regularly enforce this requirement. E.g., id.;
12 Mesa Digit., LLC v. TCL Commc’n, Inc., No. SACV 23-02133, 2024 WL 1651959,
13 at *2 (C.D. Cal. 2024); Howard v. Aetna Life Ins. Co., No. CV2201505, 2024 WL
14 305701, at *1 (C.D. Cal. 2024); SUSA Fin., Inc. v. Strauss, No. SACV 23-02127-
15 CJC, 2024 WL 1684486, at *2 (C.D. Cal. 2024); Arana v. Tesla Motors, Inc., No.
16 2:22-CV-08664, 2024 WL 693802, at *2 (C.D. Cal. 2024).

17 Here, plaintiffs plainly did not satisfy their obligation to meet and confer with 18 defendant. As this Court has explained, “[t]he purpose of Local Rule 7-3 is not served 19 by emailing a draft motion, without further discussion, and placing the onus to meet 20 and confer on the opposing party.” Follmer, 2021 WL 4816866, at *3. Plaintiffs, 21 however, failed to engage in any discussion about the substance of plaintiffs’
22 proposed motion. Mr. Resnick insisted that his conclusory email was sufficient to 23 satisfy Local Rule 7-3. See Shields Decl. ¶ 2, Ex. A, at 3 (Sept. 19 Email from M.
24 Reznick). Mr. Castaneda promised to schedule a meet and confer pursuant to USC’s 25 request, but never did. Shields Decl. ¶ 3, Ex. B. Instead, plaintiffs simply filed their 26 motion and falsely stated—over and over—that they complied with the rule. See 27 Dkts. 40, 41, 44, 47 and 49 (all at page 4). Plaintiffs’ motion should be denied for 28 failing to comply with Local Rule 7-3. Mesa Digit., LLC, 2024 WL 1651959, at *1

1 (“Accepting . . . counsel’s clearly deficient . . . attempt at conferring with opposing
2 counsel would incentivize parties to ignore the Central District’s important conferral
3 requirements.”).

4 B. The Amendment Is Futile Because It Will Have No Impact on the 5 CAFA Analysis.

6 “Futility alone . . . justif[ies] the denial of a motion for leave to amend.” Nunes
7 v. Ashcroft, 375 F.3d 805, 808 (9th Cir. 2004); Johnson v. Buckley, 356 F.3d 1067,
8 1077 (9th Cir. 2004). Here, plaintiffs are candid: they offer their proposed complaint 9 to “limit[] the putative classes to California citizens” and “divest[]” this Court of 10 “subject [matter] jurisdiction under CAFA.” Dkt. 49, at 2–3. The only material 11 changes in the proposed complaint are those that limit the putative class. See id., at 12 7; Shields Decl. ¶ 4, Ex. C.

13 Plaintiffs’ attempt to negate CAFA jurisdiction is squarely precluded by 14 binding Ninth Circuit precedent. In Broadway Grill, the plaintiff attempted to do
15 exactly what plaintiffs purported to do here: “Broadway Grill sought leave to amend
16 the complaint to change Plaintiff class to include only ‘California citizens,’ in order
17 to eliminate minimal diversity.” 856 F.3d at 1276. The Ninth Circuit rejected that 18 effort, holding that “citizenship of the class for purposes of minimal diversity must be 19 determined as of the operative complaint at the date of removal.” Id. at 1279 20 (emphasis added); accord Hargett v. RevClaims, LLC, 854 F.3d 962, 966 (8th Cir.
21 2017) (“Nor do we consider Hargett’s amended complaint, which redefined the 22 class.”); Reece v. AES Corp., 638 Fed. Appx. 755, 775 (10th Cir. 2016) (“post-23 removal amendments are ineffective to divest a federal court of jurisdiction”); 24 Louisiana v. Am. Nat. Prop. Cas. Co., 746 F.3d 633, 639 (5th Cir. 2014) (“[e]very 25 circuit that has addressed the question has held that post-removal events do not oust 26 CAFA jurisdiction” and collecting cases). Modification of the class definition after 27 removal simply cannot affect CAFA jurisdiction.

28 Moreover, when Congress passed CAFA, it specifically rejected the notion that

1 post-removal amendments could negate federal jurisdiction as contrary to its goals of 2 “expanding federal class action jurisdiction” and promoting forum stability in class
3 action litigation. Broadway Grill, 856 F.3d at 1278–1279 (discussing S. Rep. 109–
4 14, 2005 WL 627977 *68 (Feb. 28, 2005)). In Broadway Grill, as here, “plaintiffs
5 have attempted to do what CAFA was intended to prevent: an amendment changing
6 the nature of the class to divest the federal court of jurisdiction.” Broadway Grill, 7 856 F.3d at 1279.

8 Since Broadway Grill, district courts have consistently rejected attempts by 9 plaintiffs to flout the Ninth Circuit’s holding. In Dada v. Cybercoders, for example,
10 the plaintiff filed a post-removal amended complaint that “introduced a citizenship
11 limitation to restrict the class to California citizens.” No. SACV1801023, 2018 WL 12 6133673, at *3 (C.D. Cal. 2018). The court correctly barred that attempt, explaining 13 that tactic is “in direct contravention of the Ninth Circuit’s holding in Broadway.” Id.
14 So too here—plaintiffs cannot circumvent Broadway simply by ignoring it. See, e.g.,
15 Quismundo v. Trident Soc’y, Inc., No. 317CV1930, 2017 WL 11671750, at *1 n.1
16 (S.D. Cal. 2017) (“[In Broadway Grill], the court made it clear that for diversity
17 purposes CAFA means what it says—citizenship of the class for purposes of minimal 18 diversity must be determined as of the operative complaint at the date of removal.”)
19 (internal quotation omitted); Anderson v. Davis Wright Tremaine LLP, No. 3:20-CV-
20 01194, 2021 WL 7184127, at *5 (D. Or. 2021), report and recommendation adopted, 21 2022 WL 562024 (D. Or. 2022) (“In line with Broadway Grill, citizenship of the class
22 for purposes of minimal diversity must be determined as of the operative complaint 23 at the date of removal.”) (internal quotations omitted).

24 To the extent that “[p]laintiffs argue that the [proposed complaint] simply 25 clarifies the class definition . . . to specify that it consists only of California citizens,” 26 that attempt fails. Compare Dada, 2018 WL 6133673, at *3 with Dkt. 49, at 6–7.
27 Once again, the court’s analysis in Dada applies here too: “In the FAC, there were 28 no limitations placed on the class based on citizenship.” 2018 WL 6133673, at *3;

1 see FAC ¶¶ 60–61. A new proposed complaint that purports to clarify that class is 2 irrelevant. Id. at *4 (“[T]he Court must look to the operative complaint at the time of 3 removal to determine jurisdiction under CAFA.”); see also Kosieradzki v. Eversource
4 Serv. Energy Co., No. 3:20-CV-01338, 2021 WL 1227571, at *8 (D. Conn. 2021) (the 5 Ninth Circuit does not permit a defendant to “change a class definition” to clarify
6 CAFA jurisdiction); Romano v. Northrop Grumman Corp., No. CV 16-5760(DRH),
7 2017 WL 6459458, at *5 (E.D.N.Y. 2017) (same). There is no reason here to depart
8 from that uniform rule.²

9 Finally, all of plaintiffs’ cited cases are inapposite because none of them 10 concern post-removal amendments of class definitions in CAFA cases and none of 11 them suggest that plaintiffs’ instant maneuver can defeat federal subject matter
12 jurisdiction. In Newcombe v. Adolf Coors Co., a non-class, traditional diversity case
13 (and pre-CAFA), the issue was whether adding a new defendant could destroy
14 complete diversity post-removal. 157 F.3d 686, 690-91 (9th Cir. 1998). The Ninth 15 Circuit confirmed the district court did not abuse its discretion in denying the 16 plaintiff’s motion to remand. Id. at 691. The district court opinions cited by plaintiffs 17 are also non-class, traditional diversity cases that concerned adding non-diverse
18 defendants post-removal. See Vega v. Am. Ins. Co., No. CV 20-10631, 2021 WL
19 2665718, at *1–2 (C.D. Cal. 2021); Andrade v. Ford Motor Co., No. 3:22-cv-291,
20 2023 WL 2586302, at *1–3 (S.D. Cal. 2023). These non-class, non-CAFA cases 21 about adding defendants are simply not applicable here.

22 C. The Amendment Does Not Fix the Defects in Plaintiffs’ Operative
23 Complaint.

24 In its motion to dismiss (Dkt 10), USC showed that all of plaintiffs’ claims fail
25 for multiple reasons, and that plaintiffs’ class allegations should be struck. Dkt 10.

26 ² To be clear, even if the Court were to “accept[] the filing of the [proposed 27 complaint], the Court must look to the operative complaint at the time of removal to 28 determine jurisdiction under CAFA.” Dada, 2018 WL 6133673, at *4.

1 Plaintiffs’ opposition focused only on whether plaintiffs plausibly alleged the specific 2 intent required for their civil rights claims and their aiding-and-abetting theory for 3 intentional torts. See Dkt. 39, at 1–3. Plaintiffs ignored entirely—and therefore 4 conceded—the remaining dispositive reasons for dismissing many of the claims.

5 Although plaintiffs claimed that an amended complaint could “cure . . .
6 substantive or procedural defects,” plaintiffs have not added any allegations related 7 to the merits of their claims. Dkt. 35, at 2, 7; accord Dkt. 49, at 7 (“[T]he only 8 amendment sought here is to amend the pleading to make clear that this Court never 9 had jurisdiction and upon granting leave to amend will not have jurisdiction.”). In 10 other words, the proposed complaint does “not propose any new facts or legal 11 theories” and therefore supplies “no basis” for amendment to address the defects 12 identified by USC. Gardner v. Martino, 563 F.3d 981, 991 (9th Cir. 2009) (district 13 court did not abuse discretion to deny leave to amend where plaintiffs “did not explain 14 how they would cure the deficiencies” in the existing complaint); see also San 15 Francisco Patrol Special Police Officers v. City and Cnty. of San Francisco, 13 Fed.
16 Appx. 670, 675 (9th Cir. 2001) (affirming district court denial of leave to amend 17 where the “opposition to the defendants’ motion to dismiss includes only a cursory
18 discussion of what the proposed amended complaint would allege”). Thus, the Court 19 should deny plaintiffs’ motion to amend because the proposed complaint repeats the 20 same insufficient claims that were pled in the FAC, without any attempt at curing the 21 errors. See Mirmehdi v. United States, 689 F.3d 975, 985 (9th Cir. 2012) (“[A] party
22 is not entitled to an opportunity to amend his complaint if any potential amendment 23 would be futile.”).

24 Plaintiffs’ choice is all the more notable here because they have had USC’s
25 motion to dismiss opening brief since July 15 (Dkt. 10), and a preview of USC’s
26 arguments in reply since September 10 (Dkt. 32). Nevertheless, they have not 27 substantively amended their merits allegations—because there is no substance to add.
28 The futility of plaintiffs’ proposed complaint only reaffirms that USC’s motion to 1 dismiss should be granted with prejudice.

2 CONCLUSION

3 For these reasons, the Court should deny plaintiffs' motion for leave to file a 4 second amended complaint.
